GOOD WORK FOR WORKERS.

State Factory Inspectors Sum Up a Year's Accomplishments.

Their Report Recommends Shorter Hours for Female Employees.

(By Associated Press)
ALBANY, Jan. 31.—The Factory Inspectors to-day transmitted their eighth annual report to the Legislature. It will make a volume of over 700 pages, largely devoted to figures and facts showing the work done during the past year, which, in the number of factories inspected, orders given and compliances obtained, has greatly exceeded that of any previous year. There have been 11,068 separate factories, workshops and mills visited during the year, more than twice two, three and four times each. In these places there were found 42,237 persons employed, 13,708 of whom were women and girls, the persons being classified as follows:

Number of factories and sweat shops stopped from working overtime.....	292
Factories and sweat shops ordered to cease working overtime.....	1,472
Infantile children discharged.....	503
Glovers and hardware ordered guarded.....	1,104
Doors ordered kept open during working hours.....	45
Machines ordered guarded.....	299
Infantile children ordered put in separate water closets for women ordered.....	976
Workers ordered to furnish register of outside workers.....	711
Workers ordered to move from premises.....	65
Workers ordered to furnish register of outside workers.....	135
Order to cease overworking.....	45
Letter ventilation ordered.....	45
Total number of children under sixteen.....	12,964

The report shows a still further reduction in child labor, the number of children under sixteen found employed during 1893 being a fraction under thirty-four in each 1,000 persons, as against thirty-eight in 1,000 during 1892 and 112 in 1887, showing a decrease of about 19 per cent. over 1892 and of a 70 per cent. over 1888, when the law restricting the employment of children went into effect.

The report also says: "We respectfully urge that the Legislature extend to the children employed in mercantile houses the same legal protection as that now given to children employed in factories and workshops. The arguments used to defeat the bill to accomplish this, which have been presented from time to time by all honest friends of self-government and the grasping interests of those engaged in trade."

"They defend the system of child labor in mercantile houses of its profit, but this fact they hide with a cloak of seeming charitableness and specious arguments about their interest in the welfare of the children. If they had any such interest, if they had the children would be paid better wages; they would not be compelled to labor such long hours, nor would they be liable to trivial offenses, or for asking an advance in wages when their increasing size or experience would warrant better pay. The law would not be violated, and with upon the introduction of mechanical cash-carriers adopted because of greater cheapness, if all the highest talk of discrimination were to be abandoned at last and the grasping interests of those engaged in trade."

"Nothing can be said in favor of abolishing child labor in factories which will not apply with equal or greater force to the employing of children in retail stores. It seems singular, if not ridiculous, that restrictions should be placed upon the employment of children in factories and none at all

STABBED BY A DRUNKEN MAN

Now in a Basement Store Ends in Bloodshed.

John Higgins, twenty-five years old, of Greenwich avenue, acted disorderly while drunk yesterday in the basement coal and wood store of Philip Schmitt at 99 Greenwich avenue.

Schmitt finally struck Higgins with an iron chair, and Higgins retaliated by stabbing Schmitt in the neck and shoulder with a knife.

Higgins was arrested by Policeman Connem, and at Jefferson Market Court to-day was held for trial.

He was supposed to have been kidnapped, and an alibi defendant offered to surrender the boy if he would pay a certain sum. Boughen has written his story, and it is believed that he has been in Florida.

DIDN'T SEE ZELLA.

George Gould Denies the Latest Story Told.

The story that Mr. George Gould and Mrs. Zella Nicollson had an interview at the New Netherlands yesterday is most vehemently denied by Mr. Gould, the hotel people and Mr. Abe Hummel, who is conducting the woman's suit against the millionaire to recover $4,000, the value of which she is said to have given in a mysterious transaction.

Supt. Byrnes is said to have visited Mr. Gould at his offices in the West End Building this morning.

The nature of the conference, which is said to have taken place could not be learned.
